Re: BAILS Emphasis in Navajo
Date: September 29, 2003

Susan,

At the urging of the BAILS program, Modern Languages and Navajo were asked to create NAV specific writing intensive course and a NAV capstone course. We did so in consultation with the Liberal Studies committee. Accordingly, Modern Languages has developed 2 new courses (which are essentially modifications of existing courses), which nonetheless affect a change in the Navajo BAILS program.

Additionally, in consultation with College of Arts and Sciences' curriculum committee, I have made some modifications to the proposals submitted on 8-21-2003.

Thus, you will find enclosed the following:

2 new course proposals

   NAV 304W
   NAV 480C

1 course deletion

   NAV 304

1 degree plan change

Please let me know if you need anything else or have questions. Also, would you notify me of when you would have me visit the committee with these changes?

Sincerely,

Joe Collentine

Intermediate Reading and Composition (3 credits)

Time: 2:20 to 3:35 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday
Professor: Dr. Evangeline Parsons-Yazzie or Mr. Joe Kee, Jr.

Course Prerequisites: Navajo 303 or consent of instructor

Course Description & Structure/Approach:
Through the study of the Navajo language, an awareness and appreciation of the Navajo culture will be enhanced, in that an understanding will be developed of how culture, customs, and beliefs have influenced the language. The class is designed to challenge the students' ability to read and write the Navajo language. The main areas of concentration will be Navajo reading comprehension, written expression in Navajo, and increasing the speed of reading and writing the Navajo language. Comprehension skills will be heightened through the reading and writing of Navajo literature. Through writing and two revisions of a twenty page paper on Navajo culture, students will observe how Navajo culture and language lead to a unique discourse. This course will also prepare you for the completion of the Navajo Capstone course. This course provides the foundation for majors and minors and a means for them to demonstrate that they can express opinions and defending positions in expository writing. It also provides these students with opportunities to compose narrative and descriptive texts for creative and practical purposes.

Course Objectives:
1. Students will be able to write in extended discourse about Navajo literature and culture.
2. Students will be able to demonstrate through weekly reading and writing comprehension of the content and discursive structure of English and Navajo literature.
3. Students will improve their abilities to translate from Navajo texts to English.
4. Through writing and two revisions of a twenty page paper on Navajo culture, students will observe how Navajo culture and language lead to a unique discourse.
5. Students will demonstrate the ability to recognize formal and informal language styles and the context that dictates communication.

Textbook and required materials:

Course policy:
1. Attendance is mandatory.
2. Promptness is a professional courtesy.
3. Two (2) unexcused absences will be allowed, after two, your grade will be affected.

Evaluation methods:
Expectations of the Professor:
ALL COMMUNICATION IS TO BE CONDUCTED IN NAVAJO.
1. Participation in class assignments (individual and group).
2. Complete reading assignments in advance.
3. Be prepared for discussions.
4. Daily interaction in Navajo with fellow students.
5. Assignments are to be typed using the Navajo font.
6. Late assignments will not be accepted.
7. Attend all class sessions.

Evaluation will be based upon the following:
1. Classroom participation. Students will be expected to communicate in Navajo with fellow students and professor. (100 points)
2. Na'ihonitaah--Examinations will cover specific weekly reading assignments of Navajo literature. The examinations will entail writing and reading in Navajo. Speed writing and reading will also be incorporated. (100 points)
3. Translations and readings of Navajo literature and text. (100 points)
4. In-class oral readings of Navajo literature. (100 points)
5. In-class writing exercises in Navajo relating to the weekly readings of Navajo literature. (100 points)
6. Maternal clan research--For this project, the mother's clan (dóone'e jínínígíí/hámá nilínígíí) will be documented, examined, and analyzed. A formal presentation in the Navajo language will be presented to the class and a summary written in Navajo will be submitted. (100 points)
7. Navajo Culture Paper: Write a twenty (20) page paper in Navajo on a subject pertaining to Navajo Culture, to be agreed to by the professor and student. This research is to be written in Navajo utilizing the Navajo language font. This paper will undergo multiple drafts based on feedback by the instructor. (200 points)
8. Presentation of research paper. A 15-minute presentation in Navajo will presented to the class during Week 15 on research subject. (100 points)
9. Final: Interview a Navajo elder and present a two (2) page formal written summary in Navajo of the conversation. The class will develop criterion for the 90-minute interview. This conversation may be turned in at anytime during the semester. (100 points).
10. The students will also complete an assignment that may be included in their Learning Portfolio where they reflect on their personal strengths and goals.

The course grade will be based upon the following points:

- A = 895 - 1000 points
- B = 795 - 894 points
- C = 695 - 794 points
- D = 595 - 694 points
- F = below 594

In order to do well in this class, students will need to attend all class sessions. Students with more than two (2) absences will find that their grade has been affected by those absences.

NORTHERN ARIZONA UNIVERSITY

POLICY STATEMENTS
SAFE ENVIRONMENT POLICY
NAU’s Safe Working and Learning Environment Policy seeks to prohibit discrimination and promote the safety of all individuals within the university. The goal of this policy is to prevent the occurrence of discrimination on the basis of sex, race, color, age, national origin, religion, sexual orientation, disability, or veteran status and to prevent sexual harassment, sexual assault or retaliation by anyone at this university.

You may obtain a copy of this policy from the college dean’s office. If you have concerns about this policy, it is important that you contact the departmental chair, dean’s office, the Office of Student Life (523-5181), the academic ombudsperson (523-9368), or NAU’s Office of Affirmative Action (523-3312).

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES
If you have a disability, you can arrange for accommodations by contacting the office of Disability Support Services (DSS) at 523-8773 (voice) 523-6906 (TTY). You are encouraged to provide documentation of the disability to DSS at least 8 weeks prior to the beginning of the semester so arrangements can be made to meet your individual needs. You must register with DSS each semester you are enrolled and wish to use accommodations.

Faculty are not authorized to provide accommodations without prior approval from DSS. Students are encouraged to notify their instructors a minimum of one week in advance of the need for accommodation. Failure to do so may result in a delay in provision of the accommodation.

Concerns may be brought to the attention of the office of Disability Support Services or to the ADA coordinator in the Affirmative Action Office.

INSTITUTIONAL REVIEW BOARD
Any study involving observation of or interaction with human subjects that originates at NAU—including a course project, report, or research paper—must be reviewed and approved by the Institutional Review Board (IRB) for the protection of human subjects in research and research-related activities.

The IRB meets once each month. Proposals must be submitted for review at least fifteen working days before the monthly meeting. You should consult with your course instructor early in the course to ascertain if your project needs to be reviewed by the IRB and/or to secure information or appropriate forms and procedures for the IRB review. Your instructor and department chair or college dean must sign the application for approval by the IRB. The IRB categorizes projects into three levels depending on the nature of the project: exempt from further review, expedited review, or full board review. If the IRB certifies that a project is exempt from further review, you need not resubmit the project for continuing IRB review as long as there are no modifications in the exempted procedures.

A copy of the IRB Policy and Procedures Manual is available in each department’s administrative office and each college dean’s office. If you have questions, contact Carey Conover, Office of Grant and Contract Services, at 523-4889.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
The university takes an extremely serious view of violations of academic integrity. As members of the academic community, NAU’s administration, faculty, staff and students are dedicated to promoting an atmosphere of honesty and are committed to maintaining the academic integrity essential to the education process. Inherent in this commitment is the belief that academic dishonesty in all forms violates the basic principles of integrity and impedes learning. Students are therefore responsible for conducting themselves in an academically honest manner.

Individual students and faculty members are responsible for identifying instances of academic dishonesty. Faculty members then recommend penalties to the department chair or college dean in keeping with the severity of the violation. The complete policy on academic integrity is in Appendix F of NAU’s Student Handbook.

5. Justification for new course, including unique features if applicable. (Attach proposed syllabus in the approved university format; see next page for outline.)

Regarding this course's purpose, the BAILS Emphasis in Navajo presently has no NAV Capstone course, and so the proposed course here fills that void. In consultation with the liberal studies committee, Navajo, the Modern Languages chair, and Gene Cruz Uribe of the Liberal Studies Committee developed the enclosed NAV 480C course. The requirements reflect the demands liberal studies in terms of the amount of the requirements placed on students to complete a capstone course. The syllabus as approved by the liberal studies committee for a capstone course (See attached memo from Sara Aleman.)* Concerning the course's structure, the demand for Navajo is such that this capstone course can only be offered as a directed study/individual research course, and so the syllabus outline is not entirely in line with UCC requirements.

Please note that I negotiated with the Liberal Studies committee that NAV 485 be changed to NAV 485C. However, doing so would preclude any 485 undergraduate research courses, and so I am proposing that what the liberal studies committee approved be offered as NAV 480.

SUBJECT: MODERN LANGUAGES CAPSTONE PROPOSAL.

Dear David;

I am writing to inform you that the Liberal Studies Committee has approved NAV 485C (Navajo Culture and Civilization) as a Capstone course.

Capstone Research (3 credits)

Professor: Dr. Evangeline Parsons-Yazzie or Mr. Joe Kee, Jr.

Course Description, Structure/Approach, Objectives:

The B.A.I.L.S. Navajo emphasis offers students the opportunity to synthesize their scholarship and experiences from both their B.A.I.L.S. Navajo emphasis and their B.A.I.L.S. focus, the second of which varies from student to student (see http://www.nau.edu/uac/BAILS03). In this directed research course, students hone their oral and written linguistic skills and gain greater exposure to the language and the literature of the Navajo culture in a way that is formed by or is integrated with the content of the individual student's B.A.I.L.S. focus. As with all capstone experiences, this program sharpens the student's critical thinking and analysis skills. It also allows students to develop a keener understanding of a native language and its people.

Course Objective:
Students will demonstrate critical thinking abilities, analysis skills, as well as an understanding of a native language and its people in extended discourse about Navajo literature and culture.

Policies, evaluation methods, and outline:

In order to complete the B.A.I.L.S. Navajo Emphasis Capstone Course, which asks the student to demonstrate competence in the essential skills of effective writing, critical thinking, and effective oral communication, students must complete the following two parts:

1. Produce a 30-page research document (entirely in Navajo). The document's subject and contents must involve discussions, Navajo, with elders as well as the student's B.A.I.L.S. focus.

Examples:

• A student completing a B.A.I.L.S. Navajo with a focus in Criminal Justice might investigate the perceived efficacy of law enforcement efforts when officers and personnel can communicate in Navajo and when such officers and personnel are not.

• A student completing a B.A.I.L.S. Navajo with a focus in Social Work might employ qualitative sociological research methods explore Navajo experiences with Tribal and State agencies.

• A student completing a B.A.I.L.S. Navajo with a focus in History might investigate a variety of Navajo experiences and compare those reports to historical documents.
(Students' Navajo language speaking ability are taken into consideration throughout this process.)

The minimum requirements for the research document are the following:

a. Hold a 1-hour interview with the Navajo language professors to discuss the contents of their project.
b. Present evidence of discussions with elders -- taped recordings of conversations.
c. Present evidence of research to complete the project -- notes, tapes, pictures, articles, and other resource material.

2. Write a cover statement for your learning portfolio in which you explain how the pieces in your portfolio link what you have learned in your B.A.I.L.S. Navajo emphasis and your focus. Also, comment on the extent to which your Navajo emphasis and your focus complement each other, as well as how they might complement each other in your future plans (e.g., professionally, graduate school). You should also declare your personal strengths and describe your goals for your future development.

ALL COMMUNICATION IS TO BE CONDUCTED IN NAVAJO.
1. Complete reading assignments in advance.
2. Be prepared for discussions.
3. Assignments are to be typed using the Navajo font.
